

THE OMEGA BRIEF

Synopsis of full document:

The "Omega brief" has been written with the U.S. government in mind. I never really expected a swift (if any) answer to such a proposal. What I wanted to achieve in doing so was give them the opportunity to be, officially, the first to know about my technology. They would have had the chance to access one of the most invaluable breakthroughs of the new millennium in the field of "Influence Technologies.

What I really need are some people, intelligent enough to take an in-depth good look at my work.

I want you to know that, after you (hopefully) would have checked me out with the elements already at your disposal, I am completely ready to be subjected to any conventional (or UNCONVENTIONAL) method of investigation that you can think of, as to my most inner personal motivations and my practical sincerity and loyalty.

The "Omega Brief" is the description of a futuristic, yet fully developed, technology that authorizes its user to take over the neuro-behavioral centers of specific human targets, without the subjects noticing it. Such influence technology is to the human brain what "hackers" represent in the world of computers.

It can break the neurologic access code of specific terrorists or political leaders of some "rogue nation," for instance, and affect their most basic intellectual and emotional centers according to some preestablished security purpose.

The following dossier contains "classified" information as to my past as counter-terrorist field operative and very sensitive data on my own scientific work in the domain of the so-called "Influence Technologies."

My name is Philip Savage. I am a 45 year old European scientist with a very solid background in Anthropology, Criminology and Human Behavioral Sciences. During the 1970's, I was the youngest French Police Lieutenant (Inspecteur) and undercover counter-terrorist field operative at the time.

What my technology does is to take over the Central Nervous System (CNS) of designated human subjects (wherever they may be located in the World) beneath the threshold of their consciousness (Subliminal "Distant" Influentiality). People actively exposed to my subliminal procedure, are driven to do, unconsciously things they otherwise would not do (or are driven unconsciously not to do things that they otherwise would do).

I cannot think of a person (or a group of persons working together toward a specific goal or toward some material outcome) who would not benefit from using my "subliminal influence technologies" to bring about a complete change of attitude (political, commercial, or personal) of some targeted individual (or individuals).

What has to be completely understood is that my technology is no longer theoretical. It is a fully developed science that can be activated from anywhere in the World and hit any human targets (individual or collective) wherever their location. There are no "anti-subliminal" counter measures. One cannot avoid the ineluctable (but unconscious) taking over of his most essential centers of decisions (both intellectual and emotional), and one cannot escape his/her own neuro-behavioral recalibration according to the client's specific objective.

As long as I am supplied with the minimum "intel" that is required for the intended purpose, I can absolutely guarantee that, in response to being exposed to the effects of my technology, any chosen human target will soon demonstrate some deep psycho-behavioral changes, with all the professional, legal, political and familial consequences it entails. For many, this could entail a complete "subliminal brain reset."

The documentation is provided for someone in a position of authority in the government or private business to substantiate me and my work as thoroughly as possible. The sections are divided as follows:

1. Counter-Terrorism

I am an expert in the domain of counter-terrorism. which does not come from some theoretical academic studies on the subject. It is the result of several years of deep undercover work in Europe during the 1970's as a prominent counter-terrorist field operative.

2. Subliminal Psychoplectic Warfare

I have years of necessary proof that my technology works, and works exceptionally well when it comes to taking over people's mind from a distance. Science whose implementation authorizes the partial or total psycho-behavioral abduction or recalibration of individual or collective human targets, which will remain at all times unaware of the taking-over of their most basic intellectual and emotional faculties, this being done with predictable accuracy according to specific prearranged strategy.

4. Preliminary Testing of Subliminal Influentiality on Severe Burns

Simple initial tests on severe burns will trigger immediately anybody's interest, regardless of whether they are familiar or not with the field of medicine.

5. Practical Applications on Preestablished Human Subjects

A. My technology could enable any Government to oust, in a short period of time, any "irremovable" leader of some "rogue" nation, out of his/her position of control.

6. Personal Agenda

I have no private secret agenda: I am more than eager to work (directly or indirectly) for the U.S. Government, in exchange for a clean-slate new ID and substantial funding. I have, however, been virtually ignored, humiliated, and even persecuted in America, and have no legal duties toward the U.S. Consequently, I have the right to decide to use my own technology for some private business venture here or abroad.

I would like some people in charge of US National and International Security to be made aware of my scientific researches in this field and to check me out, as thoroughly as possible, before making any kind of decision.

In case my work and my background receive concrete attention, I would like to organize more testing under government supervision to substantiate and further assess the practical value of my technology.

Then, after I could have had a chance to prove, beyond reasonable doubt, the reality, the efficiency and the spectrum of my work, I would like to discuss the ways by which I could, eventually, work as private subcontractor for the US government.
